Story Book Romance Of Princess and GI At Climax in Texas

AMARILLO, Tex., Jan. 30.—(AP)—As soon as the cottage is finished, the Clyde Harrises will move in.

That will bring the proper storybook climax to the fairy tale romance of the princess who married the handsome commoner.

The princess in this real-life romance is Cecilie Viktoria Anastasia Zita Thyra Adelheid, daughter of Prince Wilhelm of Prussia and granddaughter of Kaiser Wilhelm II.

The hero is a tall, good looking former army captain who wooed and won a daughter of the Hohenzollerns when he was part of the army occupying the nation her family once ruled.

Today Princess Cecilie is Mrs. Harris, who lives in an apartment house, adores shopping and has a yen for hillbilly music. Like any young couple with their dream house a-building, Harris—an interior designer—and his bride go out at least once a day to see how things are coming on. The cottage is two-story French provincial, with a small balcony and a two-car garage. Harris drew the plans himself.

Cecilie's German accent is still heavy, but her English vocabulary has expanded marvelously in the five months she has been in America. She feels more at ease now, too.

"It is so much simpler now that I finally have the right names for people," the hazel-eyed blonde explained. "At first it was so confusing. And so embarrassing."

The transplanted daughter of royalty—she's a descendant of Queen Victoria and her father was Crown Prince of Germany when she was born in 1917—doesn't feel up to driving a car: "There is so much traffic, I'm afraid to try it yet."

At the time their engagement was announced there were reports the former crown prince objected to the alliance. He didn't though, and gave his daughter away in the ceremonies held in the bleak, 1,000-year-old Hohenzollern castle in Hechingen, Bavaria. Prince Wilhelm lives in a house near the cold fortress.

Cecilie, who served as a druggist's aid in a military hospital during the war, fled Berlin "with two suitcases and an old dog" during the 1943 bombings. She met Harris two years later when, with a military government unit, he was tracking down German art and relics. It was (Please turn to Page Ten)

Streams Rising Again After Week End Rains

Fayette County streams, which have been having their ups and downs during January, were rising again Monday as result of .70 inch of rainfall over the weekend. Most of the rain fell Sunday in a series of heavy showers.

It was the seventh time so far this month that the streams have been sent up by heavy rains.

A sharp drop in temperature from a maximum of 60 degrees Sunday to a 24 minimum Sunday night resulted in the ground freezing somewhat.

Of the .70 inch rainfall over the weekend, .58 fell Sunday before the drop in temperature came late in the afternoon.

Last year on the same date the mercury touched the lowest point of the winter—5 above zero—and the maximum for the day was 22 degrees.

(By The Associated Press) Most of the western half of the nation was locked in a frigid blast today while eastern states had comparatively mild weather. The mercury skidded far below zero at many points from the upper Mississippi Valley westward

Hundreds Die In Iran Quake

TEHRAN, Iran, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Government officials rushed relief supplies today to the Persian Gulf area of Bushire, struck by a recent series of sharp earthquakes.

First unofficial reports on the toll had said that more than 1,500 persons were killed but the government said it believed these figures were greatly exaggerated. The government, however, gave no figure of its own on the possible total of dead. Rescue and relief workers in Bushire thus far have recovered only 30 bodies.

Meanderings

By Wash Fayette

The skies along the Creek Road south of Washington C. H. were black with crows late Sunday afternoon. One of the biggest flocks of crows ever to cross the county was seen feeding in fields along the road.

They alighted in big trees in the area. Thousands were seen feeding off corn found on the ground. When passers-by honked their horns at them they took to wing and almost blackened the sky.

One day recently a group of friends gathered in a restaurant here.

The new judge of the police court, Justice Richard R. Willis, was having a cup of coffee when an old crows sauntered in and said:

"Making any progress, judge?" A waitress, not quite close enough to get an earful, innocently kidded: "That judge get you up there—he'll make plenty of profit."

The gang guffawed. And the waitress, who was made to understand that progress is not always profit, busied herself with some dishes, hiding a red look which crept over her face.

Crackdown Near In Mine Tie-up, Is Capital Tip

More Miners Quit As President Gets Ready for Action

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—(AP)—President Truman was reported by a top lieutenant as ready to act today or tomorrow in the soft coal dispute, if striking miners don't start back to work.

"The situation has now reached a point where at least the three-day work week must be put into full operation to avoid White House action," said a high White House official last night.

"Only the return of the men to work by tomorrow (Monday), or evidence by then that they are returning immediately will make it possible for the president to hold off," said the official—who declined to be quoted by name.

At another point, he said in his Sunday evening conversation with a reporter that the president might intervene "within 48 hours."

Thus the next step appeared to rest with those of John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers who have been on strike for three weeks to support their demands for a contract guaranteeing five days a week.

MORE JOIN WALKOUT PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 30.—(AP)—Bands of roving pickets helped swell the number of striking coal mines to 88,500 today as the "no contract, no work" strike surged into its fourth week. Last week about 88,000 of the (Please Turn to Page Two) only two days away, activity on the political front in Fayette County picked up in intensity Saturday and Monday, when two more candidates got into the race for offices.

Winegardner Is Out For Representative

Judge Harry M. Rankin incumbent started circulating petitions for nomination in the May 2 primary for the office of Common Pleas judge. He is a Republican. The term as judge is for six years.

R. M. Winegardner gave the race for representative from this county to the Ohio General Assembly a little flavor of the Democratic party when he started circulating petitions Monday.

Winegardner, a Democrat, has been an attorney here for more than ten years and is a veteran of several political campaigns.

Two Republicans, Virgil Perrell, incumbent, and Thomas H. Parrett have already filed to enter the Republican primary race for representative to the Ohio General Assembly from this county.

Three candidates made their entries into county political races official Saturday and Monday, when they filed petitions for nominations for the May 2 primary with the Fayette County Board of Elections.

With the deadline date set for Wednesday at 6:30 P. M. there have been a total of four filings with the Board.

C. E. (Cliff) Hughes, a Republican candidate for commissioner of Fayette County, filed his petitions with the Board early Monday.

Saturday, Virgil Perrell, incumbent representative from this county in the Ohio General Assembly, and Jean S. Nisley, a Republican running for a position on the Board of Commissioners for Fayette County, filed their petitions.

Ulric Acton, incumbent county auditor, filed his petitions earlier.

Americans Are Slovenly in Religion!

COLUMBUS, Jan. 30.—(AP)—America needs a trip to the cleaners, an estimated 2,000 Protestant ministers were told today at the opening session here of the 31st annual Ohio pastors' convention.

The statement came from the Rev. Dr. Edwin T. Dahlberg, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Syracuse, N. Y., before the Interdenominational Conference sponsored by the Ohio Council of Churches.

Dr. Dahlberg declared: "It is time that America was taken to the cleaners. This is the dirty Thursday of our postwar civilization. Just as New Yorkers have sometimes piled the dishes in the sink and gone unshaven because of the water shortage, so there are multitudes of people everywhere who have become slovenly in character because of a shortage of religion."

The Syracuse pastor said he saw a renewed interest among people in this country in the "needs of the human spirit" and expressed belief "the times are ripe for a great American revival."

Dr. Russell J. Humbert, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church at Youngstown and pastor of the convention, told the pastors as he opened the convention:

"Many persons treated their religious conviction with the same

Father Burns With Children

HANNIBAL, Mo., Jan. 30.—(AP)—"I'm going to get my babies or die with them!"

With these words, a 29-year-old father plunged into the flames consuming his tiny two-room house yesterday on the bank of the Mississippi River.

The father, Thomas Woodward Armstrong, and three of his children, died in the fire. The dead children were Barbara Ann, 3, Thomas Woodward, Jr., 2, and Pearl, 11 months.

Mrs. Armstrong, 25, rushed from the house with a fourth child, Norma Jean, 5, just after the fire started. Norma Jean was hospitalized with burns, but her condition was good.

The father was visiting relatives next door when he saw his house burning. He shouted to Harry Armstrong, his brother, "I'm going to get my babies or die with them," broke a window and disappeared into the house.

Later his body was found huddled over one of the children.

'Little Blockade' Ended by Russians

BERLIN, Jan. 30.—(AP)—The Russians dropped their "little blockade" tactics early today and allowed road traffic to flow normally from the west to Berlin for the first time in ten days.

Soviet guards, obviously acting on higher orders, passed all trucks through the frontier posts at Berlin and Helmstedt, 100 miles to the west, with only perfunctory checks.

The Soviets did not give any reason for the armistice.

Two Suspects Jailed After Grocery Holdup

CHARDON, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Two Cleveland men were held in jail today after Sheriff Stewart Harland reported several residents of nearby Parkman captured them robbing a grocery store there.

The pair identified themselves as Robert Kunstel and Dale Garver. They were not charged immediately.

Secret Sessions Held For A-Bomb Discussion

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Behind a tight secrecy curtain drawn by the state department, representatives of the United States, Belgium and Britain met here today to talk about atomic energy.

Apparently authoritative information is that they want to discuss:

1. A possible increase in the $200 to $300 per ton price which the United States pays Belgium for the bulk of uranium produced in the Belgian Congo.

2. Detailed arrangements for division of the Congo's uranium output between the United States and Britain, with virtually all of it coming to this country.

Since the talks deal with uranium—used in making present day A-bombs—there is no apparent connection with a possible superbomb powered with hydrogen.

Various developments over the week-end indicated that President Truman may be near a grave decision on whether to build the H-bomb, and that he may rule in favor of it.

In Chicago, atomic scientist Harrison C. Brown said Russia may be ahead of America in building a hydrogen bomb. He added that the American public should rule on whether the U. S. makes such a bomb, "in full knowledge and understanding of the facts and terrible potentialities."

That contrasted with a statement by Rep. Elston (R-Ohio), a member of the Senate-House atomic committee, who told a reporter this country is "far ahead" of Russia in atomic development.

But another lawmaker, Senator Mundt (R-SD) said in a New York speech that Russia is making A-bombs to the extent that "if dropped on 25 or 30 major cities, they could knock out the United States in 90 seconds."

TOLEDO, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Coroner Paul Hohly said today he still is probing the mystery surrounding the body of a baby girl found stuffed in an address package at the post office here.

Dr. Hohly finished a post-mortem examination of the infant yesterday but said further studies were planned.

The baby was discovered covered with a Jan. 20 Toledo Newspaper and some brown paper when a post office worker unwrapped the package Saturday because it bore insufficient postage.

Homicide Detective Capt. Ralph Murphy reported the package was addressed to "A. J. Buhl, Jr., R. D. 2, Fargo, N. D."

He said Fargo authorities could not find anybody by that name there.

She was identified as Myrtle Douglas Hampton, 35. Two men in the car were held on intoxication charges. They are Ernest F. Dunn, 32, and Francis McEwen, 32, both of Cincinnati.

Alcoholism Is Fatal To Woman in Car

WEST UNION, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Dr. Edward Gibbons, Adams County coroner, yesterday said a Maysville, Ky., woman found dead in a stalled car died from alcoholism.

She was identified as Myrtle Douglas Hampton, 35. Two men in the car were held on intoxication charges. They are Ernest F. Dunn, 32, and Francis McEwen, 32, both of Cincinnati.

Retail Sales in Ohio Were Down Last Year

COLUMBUS, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Ohio State University's Bureau of Business Research reports state retail sales were off in 1949 for the first time in seven years.

Sales dropped 3.8 per cent in 1949 below the banner year of 1948. The totals were $5,555,000,000 in 1949 and $5,773,000,000 in 1948.

The estimates are based on the bureau's monthly indexes publication, "Ohio Retailanalyst."

Vast Wilderness Searched by Air And across Snow

WHITEHORSE, Y. T., Jan. 30.—(AP)—More men and machines were poured today into the search for a missing U. S. air force transport and its 44 occupants.

Pace of the two-nation hunt, already ranking as the largest in the history of the frozen north, was stepped up as it entered its fourth day.

Reports of sub-zero temperatures brought new fears for the survival of any of the plane's occupants.

Temperatures at Snag, a tiny weather station 20 miles inside the Yukon territory from Alaska over which the huge transport made its last contact with the outside, were 10 below zero last night. Even colder readings were in prospect before morning.

The big, four-engine C-54 radioed its position from Snag last Thursday afternoon, about two hours after leaving Anchorage, Alaska, on a nonstop flight to Great Falls, Mont.

Aboard were 34 servicemen returning on furlough or for reassignment, an expectant mother and her two-year-old son, and eight crew members.

The search has been dubbed "Operation Mike," a name taken from the missing plane's commander, 1st Lt. Kyle E. McMichael, 28, whose wife lives in San Antonio, Texas.

As the long Arctic night called a temporary halt to the gigantic aerial search armada last night, officials anxiously awaited word from a ground party sent to investigate a lone clue to the plane's whereabouts.

It came from a forest ranger in an almost inaccessible spot approximately 40 miles to the southwest.

The ranger said he saw a large plane overhead late Thursday, then heard an earth-shaking thud, an explosion and saw billowing clouds of smoke.

Air Commodore Martin Costello of the Royal Canadian Air Force, search coordinator here, described the report as the "most highly probable" yet received.

Son of Dusty Miller Is Reported Missing

MIDDLETOWN, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Thurman Miller, 35, newspaper publisher, was reported missing today by his father, "Dusty" Miller.

The young Miller attended a Rotary Club meeting at Xenia last Tuesday, telephoned his wife he was driving to Dayton to finish a business deal, then disappeared, according to his parent.

The elder Miller, widely known in newspaper work and as a speaker, said his son had no financial or other troubles. Young Miller is the father of two children.

He was driving a new automobile when last seen, according to Miller, senior. He is publisher of the Greene County Journal at Jamestown, and the Cedarville Herald. He lives in Cedarville.

Weekend Accidents Kill 19 in Ohio

(By The Associated Press) At least 19 persons died in Ohio in accidents during the weekend, an Associated Press poll shows. Twelve of the deaths were due to traffic.

Among the miscellaneous accidents, a sergeant was killed by a whirling airplane propeller, a baby smothered in his blanket, and a truck driver was asphyxiated in his parked truck.

Fertilizer Shortage Predicted This Year for Smaller Crops

CARLSBAD, N. M., Jan. 30.—(AP)—A spokesman for three firms which turn out 85 percent of the nation's potash predicted today a fertilizer shortage will result in smaller crops this year.

He said farmers in the south and midwest will be especially hard-hit. Those who will feel the shortage most are growers of citrus fruits, sugar, tobacco, cotton and small-grain farmers.

That prediction was made by Rufus Poole, spokesman for the United States Potash Company, Potash Company of America and International Minerals and Chemical Corp.

Poole said a high official of the National Labor Relations Board told him recently he considers the potash shortage potentially more serious to the nation than either the coal dispute or a steel shutdown because it threatens to reduce the nation's food supply within a few months.

Potash is a vital ingredient of fertilizer. Poole estimated that up (Please Turn to Page Two)

Court Decision Gives Advantage To Fair Board

Law Technicalities Mark Preliminary Of Legal Scrap

As a result of a decision handed down by Judge H. M. Rankin, a jury may soon be impaneled to fix the value of the Fayette County Fairgrounds.

Judge Rankin sustained a motion filed by the Fair Board's attorney to strike from the files the answer and interrogatories filed by Carrington T. Marshall, former Chief Justice of the Ohio Supreme Court, counsel for Earl Scott, Esther Scott Crone and Paul and Elton Anderson, the defendants in the case.

In striking the answer and interrogatories from the files, Judge Rankin based his action on the fact that no provision is made by the statutes for the filing of an answer by the property owners.

"We can not read into the law a provision which the legislature must have intentionally omitted therefrom, the decision states, and continues:

"The law is quite definitely settled that:

"In appropriating private property to municipal uses, the determination of the municipality of the fact and extent of the public need and uses to which the property shall be subjected is legislative and political, and may not be questioned in the appropriation proceedings against the property owned.

"In such appropriation proceedings the only issue relates to the value of the property." The following portions of a supreme court case are cited by Judge Rankin:

"There is no provision in the municipal code for an answer in appropriation cases, and no answer is necessary. It has been said that a motion to strike an answer from the files must be granted."

Hearing To Be Held

Judge Rankin also incorporates in the decision: "If counsel are unable to agree upon a date for hearing, the court will fix the date."

W. W. Hill, who represents the Fair Board in the application, said Monday that he will press for an early hearing of the application. Hill said that he knew of no provision of the law permitting an appeal from the findings on the motion.

In such hearings the jury inspects the premises involved, and hears evidence presented by both sides as to the value of the property.

In the present case the Fair (Please turn to Page Two)

Purple Gang Boss Sentenced to Pen

DETROIT, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Harry Fleisher, one-time Detroit purple gang leader, received a maximum five-year federal prison sentence today for fleeing Michigan to avoid state prison terms for robbery and murder conspiracy.

Fleisher pleaded guilty to the fugitive charge a week ago before U. S. District Judge Theodore Levin, who sentenced him today. Judge Levin imposed no fine, though he could have fined him up to $5,000 in addition to the prison term.

Fleisher will serve the federal term before he is turned over to the state of Michigan to serve 25-50 years for a Pontiac, Mich., casino robbery and 1-2 to four years for conspiracy in the murder of State Senator Warren G. Hooper. The state terms will run concurrently.

$428,000 in Gems Taken by Burglars

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Hunts of known fences and other underworld characters were checked today by FBI agents and police investigating the burglary of $428,000 worth of jewels in the apartment of a former model.

The thieves—with a keen eye for the very best—spurned the less valuable gems and synthetic ones as they went through the apartment of Mrs. Maxine Sanson, wife of a wealthy hosiery manufacturer.

Returning from the movies late Saturday night, she found a score of jewelry boxes looted in her 14th floor terrace apartment at Madison Avenue and 35th Street.

The jewelry was insured, Mrs. Sanson told police.

Eagles Honor 40-Yr. Members

Fete Seven Living Charter Actives

The Eagles Lodge paid honor Sunday, in an impromptu meeting, to those members who have been on the Aerie Rolls continuously for forty years.

The seven living charter members who have been members at least forty years are: S. C. Roberts, Bert Shimp, John P. Ducey, Howard R. Hamner, Peter E. Dempsey, O. L. Miller and G. B. Rodgers.

Others in the 40-year group, who became members between the years of 1903 (when the Aerie was chartered) and 1910, included: Fred Barker, P. E. Wolford, Edward Warnecke, John Bishop, Herbert C. Campbell, Louis Gross, Thomas E. Lindsey, Noy Buzzick, M. B. Shank, John J. Passmore and James A. Ducey. G. B. Rodgers, Aerie treasurer, and M. B. Rodgers, Aerie secretary, paid tribute to the honored 40-year members, relating many phases of the early years when the lodge here was striving to gain a permanent foothold as an organization of prominence in the field of fraternalism.

Fast-Growing Lodge

That the lodge succeeded admirably is shown in the size of the membership, which has grown to 2,158, ranking among the leaders of the nation. The lodge was also honored by one of its brothers, the late "Doc" Hyer, serving as president of the Ohio State Aerie.

Four new members added to the honorary class were Richard N. Wood, Harry R. Allen, Orley Varney, Jr. and William A. Reed. The degree team for the ceremonies consisted of Wilbur K. Barger, Robert H. Olinger, Glenwood E. Yerian, Harvey J. Heironimus and William R. Jones.

Secretary Robert Bailey introduced the new members and gave a resume' of the active part and place gained by the Aerie in its civic endeavors, in works of charity and in the society of mankind.

A lunch followed the meeting.

to 25 percent of agricultural production is based on use of fertilizer.

He said department of agriculture figures show about 600,000 tons of potash are needed for fertilizer before April 1. Half that much is on hand.

He sees a shortage of roughly 150,000 tons.

The shortage results from a strike since Nov. 19 of some 1,500 workers in the three Carlsbad potash mines. The workers—members of the CIO International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers—demand a 25-cent an hour pay increase and improved working conditions. Union spokesmen put the average basic wage at $1.60 an hour. Poole says average earnings are $2 an hour—highest industrial average in the country.

The companies resumed fulltime operations on Jan. 23 and started hiring replacements for the strikers. The union has picketed the ## plants and contends only 40 former strikers have returned to work.

Poole said today the plants are 50 percent manned with 750 employees, 300 of them former members of the striking union.

It takes six weeks for raw potash to be delivered to the farmer as fertilizer.

The NLRB official, who asked not to be named, said 60 percent of the country's five major crops are dependent upon fertilizer.

Poole said the plants are operating at 35 to 40 percent of capacity and predicted an 80 percent output within two weeks.

He indicated farmers would have an alternative of buying potash from the Russian zone of Germany but said it was priced "much higher."

Mainly About People

Mr. and Mrs. James Wyatt, 602 East Temple Street, are the parents of a six pound daughter born in Mt. Carmel Hospital, Columbus, Monday morning in the Gerstner ambulance.

Mrs. Willis Taylor was taken from her home, 929 Millwood Avenue, to University Hospital, Columbus, Monday morning in the Gerstner ambulance.

George Weaver was taken from the Evans Nursing Home to the office of Dr. A. D. Woodmansee for X-ray treatment and returned to the nursing home Monday morning in the Gerstner ambulance.

Mrs. Chauncey Hahn and her baby daughter, Charlotte Anne born Saturday night, were brought from Haynes Hospital in Jamestown to their home in Jeffersonville in the Morrow ambulance Monday morning.

Mr. H. C. Smalley who has been a patient in Mt. Carmel Hospital, Columbus, for observation and treatment—the past three weeks has returned to his home on the McCoy Road where his condition is said to be improved.

Harland Ross, 1314 Pearl Street, suffered a heart attack near the Willis Lumber Company Monday morning and was taken to the office of Dr. J. H. Persinger for treatment and later to the Carr Nursing Home in the Gerstner ambulance.

Miss Helen McKee, 445 East Street, is a patient in Good Samaritan Hospital, for observation treatment and possible surgery. Mrs. Irving Hoffman of Washington, D. C., a cousin of Miss McKee, is remaining with her mother Mrs. C. E. McKee, who suffered a stroke a week ago and whose condition is reported as slightly improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Pitts and family are to move to their new home at Louisville, Ky., Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. William B. Clift, Jr., have purchased the Pitts home on Sycamore Street and will make their home there. Mr. Pitts has taken a position with the Chrysler Motor Co. as factory representative in the district with Louisville as headquarters.

Mrs. Darrell Snyder suffered minor cuts and bruises on Saturday evening when she was blinded by lights from another car causing her to strike a parked truck on Dayton Avenue. She was taken into the home of Mr. A. B. McDonald and from there to the office of Dr. N. M. Rieff in the Hook and Sun ambulance, where she was treated and later returned to her home, 1103 Lakeview Avenue.

Wire Tapping; How It Works

FBI Is Doing It Now On 170 Telephones

By CLARKE BEACH

WASHINGTON — Telephone wire tapping has received so much publicity lately that you might like to know how the tappers operate. Suppose you're an FBI agent and you know that a spy has taken a room in a hotel and that he is likely to be telephoning an accomplice. If you want to listen in, you first must decide whether to ask the hotel management to cooperate.

It will be a lot easier if you get the manager's help. But maybe you don't want to take a chance on the manager or his employees. They might talk. So you go on your own. You take a room near the spy's room. You "case the joint" to find out where the telephone wires run. Perhaps there's a terminal box in the hall. How to find out which wire is his? You send a fellow agent to the spy's room. He enters with a skeleton key while the spy is out and "puts a tone" on the spy's phone. That means he lifts the receiver and holds a device in front of the mouthpiece which makes a constant sound that you would recognize. Then, with a portable phone you try one wire after another in the box until you find the one making the tone.

Two Ways To Do It

You can tap the wire two ways: By making a direct connection—scrapping off the insulation and touching the bare wire with the wire from your headset or by wrapping a coil around the insulated wire and drawing off the current by electrical induction.

After you've found your wire, you make a permanent connection by either of these two methods. Then you lead your wire discretely from the box, tucking it under the tapestry, behind palms, under rugs, etc., until it stretches into your room.

Then all you have to do is keep your headpiece to your ear and wait. If you get sleepy you can rig up a little device which will make a clicking sound and wake you up whenever the spy is using his phone.

If you can't find a terminal box or other place where you can get at the spy's line, you might dope out which direction his line runs. Then take a room where his line passes through your walls. You can find where his wire is by holding an induction coil against the plaster. Work it slowly up and down, back and forth, until you can hear your colleague "putting a tone" on the phone. After you've located the line, you can make a hole in the wall and connect with the wire.

The Big Question

Can the spy detect whether his line is being tapped? Only if he has a highly technical instrument which can register a slight loss in the volume of sound. However, he'd have to have tapped his wire before it was tapped to see what the normal sound volume was.

Some tapping involves an awful lot of work. A Post Office Department inspector working on a mail fraud case once had a policeman tap a wire for weeks, making thousands of mechanical recordings.

The FBI says it is now tapping about 170 telephones in internal security cases. This is only a small percentage of the total number of cases on which the FBI is at work, but it is still a lot of tapping.

Mine Crackdown Near

nation's 400,000 soft coal diggers refused to work until they get a contract. The number of idle grew despite a White House hint that increased coal production could help stave off presidential intervention.

The strike doubled the number of stay-at-home miners in West Virginia. That state, biggest coal producer, counted 20,000 out of the pits out of 110,000.

In Pennsylvania, the number two coal state, 51,300 out of 100,000 soft coal mines are refusing to work. The State Department of Relief reported relief applications are mounting swiftly in coal producing counties.

Several mines that were closed last week in Kentucky and Alabama were able to reopen. Alabama listed 8,000 miners idle out of 18,000 and Kentucky said only 200 diggers are taking part in the work stoppage.

The strike spread to Illinois, where the 1950 disturbances first started Jan. 3. About 275 UMW miners walked out at a mine of the Pyramid Coal Company, saying they would not return until a contract calling for a five day week is signed. The nation's miners are now on a three day week on Lewis' orders.

About 16,000 Illinois UMW miners' skipped work the first week in January. They returned to the pits Jan 9 on orders of Hugh White, state UMW president.

The United Mine Workers chose to brush off a suggestion from John L. Lewis, their president, that they go back to work on a three-day week while he tries to get a new contract.

Lewis' negotiations with a big bloc of northern and western operators resume Wednesday in Washington.

Judge Reviews Case

In reviewing the case, Judge Rankin refers to the application of the plaintiff to assess compensation for the property, following due resolution adopted by the Fair Board and cites the "answer to the application herein", in which seven alleged defenses were set forth.

These include claims that there has been no effort to agree upon a price, and no inability to agree upon the sale and purchase of the property; that the title is in litigation; that property includes land not intended to be used for fair purposes and that plaintiff intends to acquire lands for purpose of selling a portion for profit.

The plaintiff's intention to permit others to erect a building on the land and lease premises for purposes not related to fairs, also is set forth.

It is noted that to the answer was attached 21 interrogatories which the defendants ask the plaintiff to answer.

The plaintiff filed a motion asking the court to strike the answer and interrogatories from the file for the reason that there is no

The Nation Today

BY VERN HAUGLAND

(For James Marlow)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 —(P)— Secretary of the Interior Chapman says the United States needs more National Parks, especially along ocean-fronts and lakeshores.

He says the federal government also ought to speed up the acquisition of some 550,000 acres of private lands now inside the National Parks.

At the rate of land acquisition with funds now available, says Chapman, the process will take at least 100 years. The private lands tend to become more expensive as time passes, and there is the further danger that some of their park values may be lost if they remain in private hands.

Chapman recently aired his views on National Park service problems before the national conference on state parks. In general his policies follow those of his predecessor, J. A. Krug. Like Krug, he stresses the point that there shall be no encroachment upon the parks "unless the welfare or the safety of the nation requires it."

He has gone further than Krug in indicating that where rural recreational and water-use needs of an area are equal, he may be on the side of the interior's reclamation bureau against interior's park service.

"Where the construction of a reservoir, dam or transmission line would damage scenic, scientific, historical or recreational resources of greater value to the nation than the economic benefits anticipated, the greater value should be protected," Chapman says.

"However, we cannot fail to recognize that the needs of a rising population and an expanding economy are giving increased importance to our programs for development and utilization of the nation's limited water and other natural resources."

Chapman says that all the lands now used by federal agencies, states or communities for parks and recreation are inadequate for an increasing — and increasingly leisured — population.

"The United States as a whole is especially lacking in beach and coastal lands," he says. "Opportunities to preserve ocean and lake front lands are fast diminishing. We need to accelerate the effort to get the best of what is left."

Chapman says he also is strongly in favor of:

1. Careful appraisal of the recreation possibilities of reclamation projects now being built throughout the west, and possible park service administration of a few such areas of national importance.
2. Better planning for the nation's recreational needs and facilities.
3. Early resumption of the recreational surveys begun before the war.

Flood Control Is Linked with Electric Power

President's Program Seeks Development Of Ohio Valley

BY G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 —(P)— Harnessing the floods that periodically have ravaged the Mississippi valley is opening vast new resources of electric power, and President Truman has called for getting every kilowatt out of them.

He dreams of a giant midwestern "central valley" program integrating development of the upper Mississippi, Missouri and Ohio river, with public power projects wherever feasible.

This is part of his overall idea, which he discussed at a recent news conference, of co-ordinated development of all of the nation's great river valleys.

Thus, another chapter in the public-versus-private power fight would seem to be in the making.

More specifically, the president suggested a $1,500,000,000 flood control and navigation program in the upper two-thirds of the sprawling Mississippi valley — which he called the country's vast "central valley" — with public power an important product.

Projects Completed

Projects already completed have added 4,307,000 kilowatts a year to the area's power resources, the army engineers report. The engineers, whose main job in peacetime is the building of flood control and navigation works, call that only a fraction of the potential.

Such kilowatt figures may not mean much to the average reader, but to advocates of public power they portend industrial growth and better living conditions.

They estimate 25,000 kilowatts a year will supply enough electricity for an average city of 50,000 population — a half kilowatt per person — and that some day the valley may produce 10,000,000 more kilowatts from its water control projects.

But, that time is so far ahead, they won't even guess when.

There is an almost endless stock of projects for the three valleys from which Congress — which is the boss — may choose. Advocates of coordinated development say that getting the money from Congress to finance the work in some logical pattern is the main task. The costs run high.

Ohio Basin Projects

Projects charted for the Ohio basin alone would cost more than $6,750,000,000, the army engineers say, and some day may produce a by-product of 4,980,000 kilowatts — enough for nearly $10,000,000 people.

In the basin lie parts of New York, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois — rich industrial and agricultural areas.

For the Missouri basin the planners have a stock of $6,125,000,000 worth of projects that would develop 4,200,000 kilowatts. This

Room and Board

By Gene Ahern

valley embraces Nebraska and parts of Minnesota, Missouri, Colorado, Wyoming, Montana, North and South Dakota, Iowa and Kansas.

For the upper Mississippi a $2-150,000,000 program has been proposed. The engineers estimate it would produce 1,053,000 kilowatts.

This program would extend south of Cairo, Ill., and take in parts of Missouri, Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Indiana.

Long Range Plans

Some work is booked for possible start or completion in the next 25 years. The rest is planned for sometime in a misty future.

For instance, probable cost of the Custer Park reservoir in Illinois hasn't even been estimated closely yet, but the engineers say it will be undertaken "some time" and produce some power.

They have on the books a planned flood protection system for Vincennes, Ind., to cost $2,810,000 for which Hoosier delegations are pressing Congress. Recent Wash-bash river floods have lent force to the appeal.

Some of the docketed work already is under way, like the Big Garrison reservoir on the Missouri river, which ultimately will cost $202,000,000. It may produce up to 400,000 kilowatts annually.

The Oahe reservoir on the Missouri in South Dakota may cost $234,000,000 and produce up to 420,000 kilowatts; Wolf Creek reservoir on the Cumberland river in Kentucky may cost $82,700,000 and produce 270,000 kilowatts. And, so it goes.

The main idea is to tame those rambunctious rivers and improve the inland waterway system, from the Great Lakes to the gulf, and, at the same time, to develop public power, irrigate arid lands, control soil erosion, conserve underground water resources, and give the people better fishing, hunting and recreational facilities.

Patrolman Cite Three Offenders

State Highway Patrolmen picked up three persons for traffic violations during the weekend.

Louis Dollin, 20, Cincinnati, was fined $15 and costs by Mayor Harry Junk, of Mt. Sterling, for speeding on Route 62, north.

Stanley H. Berger, 30, Cincinnati, clocked at upward of 80 miles an hour on 22, west, drew $5 and costs in the Sabina court, where the president of council left the offender off easy.

Acle M. Sherman, of near here was cited to appear in police court here for crossing a yellow line.

More Vegetables

DENVER —(P)— Vegetables wore a $19,237,000 price tag in Colorado in 1949.

That was the value placed on the state's commercial vegetable crop by the U. S. department of agriculture. It represented a 55 per cent jump from the value of the 1948 crop, $12,376,000.

THINK TWICE BEFORE CHANGING

Every night when I go to bed and every morning when I arise I say to myself, "It's great to be alive—in America and to be a natural-born American." I say it because I know there is practically no other land on the face of the earth today where it can be said.

It is a fact that the world today is caught in a cycle of political despair. It is not a condition peculiar to any one country; it reaches into every corner of the globe.

This peculiar doctrine travels under many labels. It is called Communism in one country, Socialism in another, Fascism, Nazism and so on. But whatever label you sew into the political garment, you still get the same thing—Statism.

This political infection starting in the Old World, has spread and spread until nearly every nation has felt its ravages. For 20 years the United States has been laid open to this epidemic. Even people high in the councils of our government have deliberately tried to inject this alien malady into the bloodstream of America.

The peddlers of this deadly virus opened their suitcases in Washington nearly twenty years ago and began to spread their influence through the process of infiltration into the government until the president of the United States himself, maybe unwittingly, become the No. 1 carrier of their doctrines. In fact, we have now reached the point where an American president for the first time is openly espousing programs to change the American form of government.

Leading Democrats and Republicans know the course the White House has set. James F. Byrnes, leading Democrat, says that if some of the schemes now proposed are enacted into law, we are headed for statism when everybody will be pulling on oars as slaves of the state. Hoover, another great American, says we are "already on the last mile."

For the words "freedom" and "opportunity" they are substituting a word loaded with political narcotics, that word is "security." Security—physical security. They say it over and over. You are not able to manage your own affairs. You can't handle your own money. You are not capable of making decisions of your own. The state should do this for you. The only security worthwhile is that which the state gives—or promises.

Socialize this, socialize that, socialize everything. Get ideas from England. Did you know that Socialism is a mistaken political philosophy and an obsolete mode of thought, which believes in all-powerful state which owns everything, which plans everything, which distributes everything?

Of course these followers of Socialism do not tell you about the price you pay when you give up "freedom" and "opportunity" for "security." They do not tell you that they bleed you white through taxation slowly maneuvering you into a corner where you are helpless.

They do not tell you that for your sacrifice of these two words they will hand you a labor card, a clothing card, a food card, and you work where you are told, wear what you are given and eat what they ration.

No indeed. All these word peddlers tell you is that they are going to give you "security." In every case their methods are the same. Their target is young people. They erect youth camps. They set up youth organizations. They seize control of education. They sow the seeds of their deadly doctrines through every propaganda device at their command.

Ask New Zealand. Ask Australia. They tried it and rid themselves of this slimy octopus Ask England.

Isn't it time that all of us begin doing some thinking? Mr. Truman even suggests that schools start teaching his statist or socialist form of philosophy so that statism will "become part of the very thinking of young people; part of their education during the years when their minds are plastic and receptive."

APPARENTLY listening to an interesting conversation, Mrs. Alben W. Barkley, wife of the vice president, sews for the Red Cross at Senate Ladies' club meeting in Washington. (International)

Is the American government no longer satisfactory to him?

Think it over!

Here Is How Fayette County Alone, Is Hit

An estimated saving of approximately $807,618 in federal taxes for Fayette County alone could be made if the proposed federal budget of Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, noted Democratic statesman, would be adopted by Congress for the 1950-51 fiscal year instead of the much greater budget proposed by President Truman.

This is more than all present local tax costs for city, village and rural districts in this county combined.

These figures come from reliable non-partisan sources and would mean a saving of approximately $46.52 for every man, woman and child in Fayette County and $186.08 for every family.

Operation of the proposed Truman 1950-51 budget is estimated to cost Fayette County residents $5,322,954 in federal taxes.

The state of Ohio would save $372,174,200 for this period by the adoption of the Byrd budget rather than that of the Truman administration.

Senator Byrd, an authority on federal fiscal affairs, long a vigorous opponent of the Truman federal spending, has been a student of finances during his many years in the Senate at Washington D. C. His voice constantly has been raised for more economy in government. He contends, and shows figures to prove, that his budget submitted at the same time as that of President Truman, would save the country more than $6 billion and would leave something over for national debt reduction without, in the slightest degree impairing national security or any necessary government function.

It is pointed out that Ohio's estimated savings under the Byrd budget in terms of this state's governmental operations would mean:

One and one-fourth times the total expenditures for all Ohio public schools in 1949.

More than 15 times the annual appropriation for all state supported universities and colleges.

Two times the cost of the entire postwar building program for Ohio.

Approximately six times the cost of the entire postwar building program for State welfare institutions.

One and two-fifths times the 1948 total real, public utility and tangible personal property tax collections for all purposes in Ohio.

Under Senator Byrd's program the federal budget can be balanced in 1951. Wasteful and unnecessary government spending can be eliminated by Congress if the Truman budget is changed.

The Truman budget, on the other hand, would make another large deficit inevitable at the end of the 1951 fiscal year, plunging the nation into a still greater public debt.

The Horse's Mouth

The familiar saying about locking a gift horse in the mouth is founded on the fact that an expert appraiser of horseflesh used to be able to judge an animal's age from the appearance of the teeth. This statement is advisedly put in the past tense, for it has come to light that a cattle dealer in England learned to fit false teeth to time-worn cows and pass them off as spry heifers.

It is not clear whether he did an imperfect job or committed a tactical blunder in selling some of his falsified heifers to the government, but at any rate he was caught as a result of his sales to the Ministry of Food and now languishes in jail.

Such tricks as filing the teeth of an animal to alter the apparent age have long been known, but these are readily detected by an experienced hand. Many a human mouth offers evidence that a skillfully wrought false tooth can look very much like the real thing. If the teeth of a cow or horse can be counterfeited, what tests of value remain safe from the artistic swindler?

Oh, to be eleven again, which statisticians say is the safest year of life for residents of the United States.

Bed-Wetting Cured By Simple Training

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

IT often happens that simple methods succeed where more complicated measures fail.

No where is this more true than in the condition known as enuresis or bed-wetting, where control of the bladder is delayed beyond the age where it should have been achieved.

This failure can be due to many different causes; yet in most cases a simple process of education and training seems to be of as much value as the drugs, operations, and mental treatment which are often resorted to.

Group of Patients

This is demonstrated by a group of 61 patients who were observed in the hospital and followed, after their discharge, for a number of years. Their ages ranged from 3 to 22 years, the average being between 9 and 10 years.

Hospital treatment was carried out under the supervision of a nurse who had a special knack of dealing with children, and an appreciation of their need for encouragement and praise. The children were given nothing to drink after six o'clock at night and, during the first few days in the hospital, were taken out of bed at 11:00 p.m. and 2:00 a.m. to go to the toilet.

When a child began to show improvement he was awakened only once at night. Later on, the patients were taught to respond to an alarm clock and they could get up themselves.

tients were also given some salty food in the evening.

The average duration of the hospital treatment was 25 days and, on discharge, the patients were urged to keep up the same treatment at home. It was found that, in practically every case, improvement occurred before discharge from the hospital and, in more than six out of ten, the bed-wetting was stopped completely.

In another fourth of the patients, the habit was broken after the first few nights in the hospital. However, in about one-fifth of the cases no improvement occurred after discharge from the hospital. All in all, more than three-fourths of the patients could be regarded as cured by this form of treatment.

Practically all of the patients had been given medicines of one sort or another before they were admitted to the hospital. In no instance did the use of the drugs bring any benefit.

It would appear that this simple treatment brings as good results as those requiring more active measures and the use of drugs.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

E. M. L.: I have water blisters on my feet. Could you tell me the cause of this condition?

Answer: Such a condition might be due to ringworm of the feet. It might also come from an infection with germs, or from skin inflammation due to excessive sweating.

You should consult with a skin specialist so that the cause can be found and proper treatment carried out.

Circleville Chief Bluffs Council in Move To Oust Him

CIRCLEVILLE, Jan. 30—(P)—Police Chief William (Bugs) McCrady—object of an ouster campaign by city council—took another look at his cards today and refused to fold up.

Council offered either to make McCrady chief of detectives or to give him a pay increase and retirement on a substantial pension. But, McCrady said:

"Nothing doing. You cannot shove me out. You cannot starve me out, if you want me out of office, you'll have to hatch up something on me and throw me out completely."

"And, boys, my record is clean." This prompted city councilmen E. L. Montgomery, a Circleville physician, to comment:

"City council has been out-bluffed. The council is holding a pair of jacks against a full house."

They might as well fold up their cards and get out of the game."

City council never officially has said why it wants McCrady out of office. But, some time ago Montgomery said it was his personal opinion council "apparently likes McCrady as a man but feels he is a poor administrator while being an excellent detective."

Let's Save that Old Common Cold By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK. —(P)—Have you noticed what science is up to now? It's trying to destroy man's best friend—the common cold.

This is rank ingratitude to an ailment that has helped more people than it has hurt. For modern society is built on the common cold, real or imaginary, and it fills many necessary functions.

There is a great tumult raging in medical circles as claims are made that new anti-histamine drugs will cure the common cold.

Who cares? Who wants it cured anyway? Pneumonia, influenza, bronchitis, asthma—these are real diseases that threaten lives and should be attacked without mercy.

But why pick on the common cold? It isn't really a disease—it is one of civilization's great safety valves.

The misguided people who want to get rid of its use the same arguments as those who advocated prohibition 30 years ago. The main argument is economic—that colds cost some $420,000,000 a year in lost wages.

The idea is that, if colds are stopped, won't miss work and they will have $420,000,000 more with which to buy homes, orchards, toy trains and Shetland ponies.

What nonsense, really!

How many "colds" are caused by germs? Only a fraction—as most physicians know. A cold is really a camouflage name to describe hangovers, laziness, deep fatigue, spring fever, an unwillingness to face problems at the office, a temporary retreat from the bugle call of duty, or just a desire to play hooky and go to a ball game.

Will any drugs, anti-histamine or otherwise, cure all these things? Well, that is the real problem of the common cold.

At present if you don't want to play bridge or attend a boring cocktail party, you just put a towel over your mouth, go to the phone and mumble to the hostess:

"Sorry, can't make it, got a code id my head."

Who wants her to chirp back,

"oh, don't worry. I'll send you over some anti-histamines. They'll fix you up right away, and you'll be able to come."

Right now the plain, everyday cold is a better excuse than television to stay home—and stay healthy. Social hypocrisy demands that there be a fashionably acceptable minor illness to bail people out of trouble they don't want to get into.

Cure the common cold and folks will have to develop another ailment—one that might really make them sick. For people—such is the power of mind over germs—usually do develop the ailments they pretend to have.

What'll we trade the cold for—arthritis, kidney stones, gall bladder attacks, high blood pressure, or mental neuroses? All are worse than the cold, which is merely a gentle allergy to life's train and a signal to take it easy.

Let's keep the good old cold. If medical wizards develop a grasshopper hormone.

A few shots of that and then we can all go about leaping and laughing, tirelessly doing the things we don't feel up to now.

Steel Stockholders Asking About Plans

CINCINNATI, Jan. 30—(P)—A minority group of Portsmouth Steel Co., stockholders, who have been seeking a list of all shareholders, yesterday asked Cyrus S. Eaton, company president, to disclose future plans for the concern.

Eaton was asked if he intended to call a meeting of all stockholders to decide whether to re-invest the company's funds "or to distribute to all stockholders $12,000,000 resulting from sale of all physical assets to Detroit Steel."

The physical assets of the Portsmouth Company recently were sold to the Detroit Steel Corp.

At his home in Cleveland, Eaton said he would not "dignify" the question by giving it an answer.

Miss Constance Pyle Weds Mr. Robert M. Meriweather At Afternoon Ceremony

Long white tapers in white seven branch candelabra, shed a soft light on cathedral baskets of white carnations, gladioli, and stelia accented with pots of fern on the altar at the First Baptist Church on Sunday afternoon, January 29, at a beautiful open church wedding when Miss Constance Mae Pyle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Pyle, became the bride of Mr. Robert M. Meriweather, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Meriweather.

A half hour musical program beginning at three o'clock, preceded the ceremony. It was presented by Mrs. Marian Gage, pianist, Mr. M. E. Violet, soloist, and his accompanist Mrs. H. L. Loyd, both of Columbus and both cousins of the bride. Mr. Violet included in his numbers "O Promise Me"—De Koven, "Because"—d'Harlelot, and "I Love You Truly"—Bond.

Mrs. Gage's selections included "Berceuse" from Jocelyn by Godard, "Exaltation"—Poldini, "Canone Amaro"—Nevin, "Intermezzo"—Friml, "Traumerei"—Strauss, "A Melody"—Dawes, "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life", Victor Herbert, and the traditional wedding marches.

As the hands of the clock approached four Rev. Francis T. McCarty read the double ring service. The bride was preceded to the altar by her bridesmaids who were her sister, Miss Shirley Pyle, Miss Barbara Tracey and Miss Ruth Engle, and her maid of honor who was another sister, Miss Dorothy Pyle.

Mr. Charles P. Meriweather was best man for his brother, Ushers seating the guests were Mr. Jack Pyle, brother of the bride, Mr. John Phillips, Mr. Robert Black and Mr. Harold Scott.

The bride given in marriage by her father wore for the occasion a candlelight satin gown fashioned along simple lines, with a fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline, outlined with braided satin, and long pointed sleeves and the full skirt fell gracefully into a sweeping train. Her white satin coronet, featuring the braided satin trim, outlining her face and holding in place her long lace veil.

Her bridal bouquet was white carnations and yellow roses and she wore as her only jewelry a single strand of pearls, the gift of the groom.

The maid of honor and bridesmaids wore satin gowns fashioned identically with low portrait necklines, short cap sleeves, fitted bodices and full circular skirts.

Upon their return in two weeks, they will reside at 1407 Washington Avenue, where their home is in readiness.

The bride, a graduate of Washington High School, in the class of '46, has until her marriage, been employed as secretary at the Fayette County Farm Bureau, and upon her return will be associated with First Federal Savings and Loan Company as a secretary.

Mr. Meriweather, also a graduate of Washington C. H. High School, is associated in business with his father at the Meriweather Motor Company.

Out of town guests included at the wedding were from Portsmouth, Springfield, Jackson, Charleston, West Virginia, Columbus, Chillicothe and Sabina.

matching mitts and satin coronets with braided satin trim. Each wore a single strand of pearls the gift of the bride. Miss Dorothy Pyle was wearing pepper pink shade, Miss Shirley Pyle bronze, Miss Tracey, dusky violet, and Miss Engle lime green. Their bouquets were of carnations, roses and daffodils, tied with cascades of satin ribbon blending with their gowns.

The bride's mother chose a clove silk crepe afternoon dress with gold trim, brown accessories, and her corsage was yellow rosebuds. Mrs. Meriweather was wearing a grey crepe afternoon dress with matching accessories and her corsage was pink rosebuds. An informal receiving line was formed in the foyer of the church and later a reception for invited guests was held at the Washington Country Club.

The bride's table, white cloth covered, was centered with a three tiered wedding cake topped with wedding bells and the traditional bride and groom, with smilax and pink rose buds at the base of the cake, flanked with white tapers in three branch candelabra.

The silver service at either end of the table was presided over by Mr. Harold Scott and Miss Marjorie Peterson. Miss Frances Meriweather, aunt of the groom, Miss Clarabelle Robinson and Miss Martha Lou Burnett, were the assisting hostesses.

When the couple left for Florida to spend their honeymoon, the new Mrs. Meriweather had changed to a navy blue tailored suit, navy and white accessories, a white top coat, with a corsage of white carnations and yellow rosebuds.

Upon their return in two weeks, they will reside at 1407 Washington Avenue, where their home is in readiness.

Supper Precedes Parish Meeting At Gram Home

The parish meeting of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church was held Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gram, with forty-five members present.

This was the annual meeting of the congregation.

Mr. and Mrs. George Spettigue were the assisting host and hostess at a delicious covered dish supper, preceding the business meeting. A large bouquet of red and white carnations were admired in the living room and were the gift of Judge and Mrs. Otis B. Core.

The tempting viands were served buffet fashion from a lace cloth covered table and small tables seated the group for the congenial supper hour, with Rev. D. J. Macdonald giving the invocation.

Mr. T. J. Looe, chairman of the executive board, capably presided over the meeting and announced the names of the officers, vice president, Mrs. Henry Gram; secretary, Mr. Felix Halliday and treasurer, Judge Otis Core.

Judge Core gave a most gratifying report which was gratefully received and accepted. Mrs. Clarence G. Hayes gave a splendid missionary report, and Mrs. T. J. Looe reported for the Women's Auxiliary that the United Thank Offering had been sent in. Mrs. Karl J. Kay reviewed World Community Day held in November, when a large box of Pieces For Peace was sent to the women of Europe.

A lengthy report by Mrs. Ellis Bolton was given on the progress of St. Christina Guild, which is now two years old and very active. The society is furnishing the new Sunday School room at the church and will sponsor a benefit card party on February 16.

Mr. Henry Gram, president of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew's, told of its six month existence and their project, the building of the annex to the church. Mr. George Spettigue gave an excellent report on the Every Member Canvass and Judge Core asked to be relieved of his duties as treasurer.

Rainbow Class Holds Meeting

The Rainbow Class of the First Presbyterian Church met Saturday afternoon in the church house, with twenty one members and one guest present. The meeting was supervised by Mrs. W. W. Humphries and Mrs. Walter Beatty class teachers and was presided over by the president Shirley Beatty. Roll call was responded to with the Ten Commandments. The usual reports were given, and attendance of Sunday School was stressed, and small awards were offered for the committing to memory the Ten Commandments. Valentine projects were discussed, and the meeting was closed. Mrs. Humphries led in the devotionals following and read the story of the Life of Jesus. The next meeting will be on February 11, at the church house. During the social hour ice cream bars were served by the hostesses Wilma Brown, Bonnie Burns, and Jane Pres-hour. Patty Bowen was included as a guest. Later the girls worked on religious scrapbooks and colored pictures of "The Lost Sheep" drawn by Mrs. Beatty.

with Miss Ann Story being chosen to fill this office.

A vote of thanks was extended Mr. Karl J. Kay for the gift of a bell for the church and also to Mr. Felix Halliday for his work on the construction of the new Sunday School room. Mrs. Gram and Mrs. Spettigue also received thanks from the group for their work in preparing the church bulletin each week, which is sent to the members.

Marcus Prosch, made up a trio of charming hostesses when they added another beautiful party to the social calendar, at the Washington Country Club welcoming a large number of guests at a one o'clock luncheon bridge.

The hostesses introduced a clever vacation theme in the decorations throughout the club lounge, using trains, Mexican figurines, and placards of sunny south as well as tropical countries, and also seaside scenes.

Small tables seating the guests for the delicious luncheon were centered with tropical scenes, on sandy bases, featuring tiny palm trees, jockeys on horses in the unique settings, and places were marked with scenic post cards.

The guests found the afternoon too short in the congenial progressive game and at the conclusion attractively wrapped awards were presented Mrs. Frank Baker who was the holder of high score, Mrs. Richard R. ## Youths Enrolled in Drivers Course Here Get Certificates

Twenty-two WHS students have completed the driver's training course offered at the high school here.

These students passed a rigid final examination on the road last week and received their certificates of proficiency, signed by State Highway Patrolman Corporal D. L. Osborne of the state highway patrol's Wilmington station.

Now full-fledged drivers, the pupils have a temporary license, pending the receipt of a permanent one from the Ohio Motor Vehicle Bureau in Columbus.

The automobile has become a thing of necessity and convenience to many people—and a deadly weapon in the hands of others. But the graduates of the WHS driver's training are well-equipped for their new responsibility.

Each student spent 36 hours in the classroom, 18 hours as an observer in the driver's training automobile and six hours behind the wheel—receiving careful instruction each minute of it.

Students Evaluate Course

The driver's training course is one in which "the students must learn to think and act in split seconds," said Beverly Bell in commenting on the course.

Driver's training has "made me a more courteous and careful driver," said Barbara Edwards. "It has given me more respect for other drivers and pedestrians."

"I don't think there would be as many accidents if all drivers could take a 'good' driving course. Washington High School is very fortunate to have this course and such a good teacher," commented Fern Thompson.

In other evaluations of the course, Becky Armbrust said that this course "has made me think more of my responsibility as a teen-age driver." She also felt the course should cover two semesters instead of one.

An important thing that Mildred Sword said she learned in the course was to "take your time and be careful." She also pointed to the value gained from the course in studying reaction time, hand signal, parking and other problems of the driver.

Mildred's statement gives just a hint on what was covered in the course by Instructor Arthur Engle, who received special teaching instruction himself in Dayton before opening the course here two years ago.

Course Has Depth

The content of the course includes a 400-page textbook published by the American Automobile Association, motion pictures and roundtable discussions as regular class hours and time with the highway patrol, as well as spent in the car itself.

For the final exam, the student is told to stimulate a 300-mile trip. Engle observes the student on 128 items, which are broken down into sections dealing with different phases of driving. The test used is the AAA's "Road Test In Traffic."

Points are deducted from the student's score for such things as failing to check the battery water, failing to yield the right of way, inattentiveness while driving, passing on curves and at intersections and for many other things necessary for safe driving.

Engle has found the major mistakes takes of his pupils to be overrunning crosswalks, stalling the engine and failure to coordinate the clutch and brakes.

WHS Scores Are High

But the WHS students score higher than average on the AAA test.

After the deducted points are added, the pupil is marked A, B, C and so on, depending on the category in which they score. An AAA report shows that the majority of students taking the test fall in the "C" bracket. Engle's records show that the WHS driver's training grades have more test scores in the "B" range than in any other.

The students who received certificates of proficiency were: Helen Ackley, Donald Bryan, Barbara Edwards, Annabelle Ferrin, Patricia Lee, Jean Miller, Shirley Hart, Mildred Sword and Avonelle and Naomi Timberman.

Also, Beverly Bell, Helen Dawes, Patricia Rhoades, Frank Whited, Jean Williams Mary Aills, Raymond Bennett, Doris Brown, David Fabb, Wilma Grimm, Martha Irons and Sue Williams.

Higher Education Benefits Described

The advantages of higher education have been outlined to juniors and seniors at Washington High School.

Edward A. Schwinn, field representative for Miami-Jacobs College in Dayton, spoke to the WHS juniors and seniors in a special gathering of those interested in furthering their education.

Schwinn spoke on the topic, "Fishbone or Backbone" and explained to the group what college was like. He told of the benefits that accrue to those with higher education, if it be taken in science, business, technical training, the arts or a general course.

Sells Interests In Roller Haven

Virgil Griffith has sold his interests in the Roller Haven skating rink on U. S. 22, west of Washington C. H., to C. B. and William Hatfield.

Griffith is erecting a new rink in Portsmouth and will move to that city to operate it.

Roller Haven, in addition to the usual patronage from this community, has a bus which makes trips to Wilmington, London, Greenfield, Sabina and Circleville one night each week, and brings loads of skaters from those places, returning them after skating hours.

Danville

Mrs. Sadie Wright and son Thomas of Mt. Sterling spent last Saturday afternoon at the hotel home here.

Mrs. Elizabeth Anthony, who has been ill for several days is improving.

Thurman Lambert met with a very painful accident this week, while cutting down a tree he was hit in the eye by a chip causing a hemorrhage of the eye. He was treated by Dr. Bacon of London.

Several here are ill with colds and gripe.

YOU'LL REMEMBER MAMA, too, after seeing the above cast of WHS Thespians in the heart-warming comedy, "I Remember Mama," at the high school auditorium Tuesday night. Curtain time is 8 P. ## Embalmed Body of Communist Viewed by Many Bulgarians

BY WILLIAM N. OATIS
SOFIA.—(AP)—The white mausoleum of Georgi Dimitrov, international communist, is a highly popular shrine in Bulgaria.

A good guess is that 35,000 or more people visit it each week to see Dimitrov's body, embalmed by a Soviet method used to preserve the corpse of Lenin.

The mausoleum is open 13 hours a week on four afternoons. At least 45 people pass through each minute. Sometimes 600 wait outside.

Dimitrov, for nine years secretary general of the communist international, was the first premier of postwar Bulgaria. He died at 67 last July 2 in Moscow, where he had gone to be treated for liver trouble and diabetes.

In Sofia, more than 1,000 men set to work at once building his mausoleum. They finished it in five days, some working straight through.

Corpse Locked Up

The corpse was locked inside after funerals in Moscow and Sofia. The third week in December, the building was opened to the public.

The mausoleum stands in the Ninth of September Square, commemorating the 1944 uprising by which the communist-led fatherland front won Bulgaria from the Germans and their native collaborators.

It is patterned after the tomb of Lenin, leader of the 1917 Russian revolution, in Moscow's Red Square. Built of white limestone and shaped like a block-house, it is roughly 35 feet tall and 55 square.

Above the ground floor level on each side is a broad niche behind four square columns. Across the front runs an elevated porch.

Overhead is the Bulgarian inscription, "Georgi Dimitrov."

Visitors crowd slowly through a vestibule decked with wreaths, shuffle through three left turns around a low hall and finally enter a high-ceilinged inner room dimly lit from above.

Bier on Black Marble

The bier rests on a block of black marble rising out of a shallow rectangular well in the center. Two khaki-clad militiamen with fixed bayonets stand guard at its head beside a wreath from Soviet Prime Minister Stalin.

Dimitrov lies in a red glow under a classic bronze canopy, itself directly beneath a big bronze ring of laurel leaves. His face looks firm but his skin somewhat waxlike. His closed eyelids are relaxed. His strong nose and bushy eyebrows and mustache stand out. His black hair, streaked with grey, falls in tousled waves on a black burlap pillow.

He wears a white shirt and black coat and tie and is covered above the waist by a black cloth, on which his hands rest. On his lapel are three rows of ribbons, including the Soviet Order of Lenin.

The crowd passes quietly around the room and outdoors—young soldiers, city couples leading little children, old farmer women in bright country dress. The whole tour takes about seven minutes.

L'Anse, county seat of Baraga County, Michigan, was for years the site of a camp used by French explorers and missionaries.

New Hearing Device Has No Receiver Button In Ear

Chicago, Ill.—Deafened people are hailing a new device that gives them clear hearing without a receiver button in the ear. They now enjoy songs, sermons, friendly companionship and business success with no self-conscious feeling that people are looking at a button hanging on their ear. Tiny Phantomold fits so deep within the ear that it is hardly seen. Sound is relayed to it by an inconspicuous tube from a button concealed in the clothing. The makers of Beltone, Dept. 40, 1450 W. 19th St., Chicago 8, Ill., are so proud of their achievement they will gladly send you their free brochure (in plain wrapper) and explain how you can test this amazing device in your own home without risking a penny. ## County Politics Heats Up Early

Republican Dinner Likely Next Month

The flames under Fayette County's already boiling political pot are to be turned on full blast the middle of next month, if plans now being shaped up by the Republican executive committee materialize.

Not in a long time, has a primary campaign got off to such an early start as it has this year. And the primary is still more than three months away—not until May 5.

Already, there are two candidates in the race for the Republican nomination for representative to the General Assembly, two for county engineer, four for county commissioner and two for county auditor.

None Weakening Yet

At least they have taken out nominating petitions. While they have not filed yet—by all rules of the game it is still too early for that—there is nothing to indicate any of the lot has any intention of backing out now.

Meanwhile, the Democratic camp remains quiet comparison. But that's running true to form for the county's minority party. Frank Grubbs, a former representative and the headman of the party's county committee, is getting set to make the race for state senator, according to reliable sources. There is not even any inkling of Democratic contests for nominations for county office.

Reed M. Winegardner has taken out petitions for the Democratic nomination representative, but he still has no opposition.

Dinner Is Planned

The Republicans, meanwhile, are laying plans to juice up interest in the political campaign with a big Lincoln Day dinner. The plans are still a bit nebulous, but the general outlines are growing more distinct day by day.

There is little doubt that the dinner will be held, although the date and place are still undecided.

Glenn B. Rodgers, the county's Republican chairman, confirmed the talk of plans for the affair, but added that "we haven't settled on a day yet because we don't know when we can get the hall."

If everything goes according to plans however, the dinner will be held in the American Legion hall and as near Lincoln's birthday as possible. Since Lincoln's birthday anniversary (Feb. 12) comes on Sunday, the dinner may be any day during that week.

Purpose of Dinner

The primary purpose of the dinner, the chairman said, was to generate enthusiasm in politics and for the Republican party.

Lincoln Day dinners by the Republicans are not new, Rodgers said. They are held in cities and towns all over the country. With his ever-ready sense of humor cropping out, the chairman said "we've got to do something to counteract these Democratic Jackson Day dinners, you know."

As for the political slate the Republicans will have for the primary, the present lineup may be only a starter or it could be it.

Lion Cagers Nosed Out By Western Hills Boys

The WHS cagers dropped two games to Cincinnati Western Hills Saturday night, but the sparse turnout at the gym here witnessed the two most thrilling finishes this season.

In the finale, the lead seceded throughout and the Lions ahead, 46-44, with a minute to go. But Western Hills sank three foul shots in fifteen seconds and held the 47-46 edge until the final buzzer.

The Reserve game ending was uneventful.

With the WHS Reserves apparently the loser by 28-26, Norm Crosswhite broke into the clear with a loose ball and tied it up with four seconds to go as the fans went into a frenzy. But a quick Cincinnati pass and a long desperation shot from the near ten-second line cut the cords to down the Lion Reserves, 28-30.

Cincy Not So Hot

The Western Hills team was not one of the best to face the Lions this season and the WHS squad lost its golden opportunity for victory. The Cincinnati boys were not accurate and their playing lacked coordination. Their star, Bob Stephenson, was not outstanding, yet he got 19 points-nine on fouls. The other Cincy pointmaker was Mango, who made 8 out of 10 free throws.

The playing of both teams was erratic, but mostly rough and tumble. The Lions played so well in some parts of the game that they seemed bewildered by their own superiority. Cincinnati, on the other hand, played jaggedly, except for scoring spurts in the second quarter and in the last minutes of the game.

Archer, Sheidler Shine

Russ Archer, on the bench during the first half, turned in an outstanding game in the second half. He put life into the Lions by sinking four out of four fouls in the final period.

Dave Sheidler also starred, turning in his usual dependable game. Dave was the steady influence that kept the team from going completely haywire.

Brad Neff and Ed Pensly did a remarkable job of controlling the backboards in the first period, but Cincy started blocking them out later on.

The Lions did themselves credit at the foul stripe, dropping in 14 out of 20 free throws. Western Hills made good on 21 out of 34 tries.

First Quarter

In an unusual beginning, the lions led, 2-0, without firing a shot from the field. Both points came on fouls. A Western Hills "sleeper" gave Cincy its first field goal in five minutes of playing. WHS led 13 to 3 and played overcautiously, refusing to shoot. The Lions controlled the game, but lost the ball on a couple of bad passes as the score went to 13-8.

Second Quarter

WHS still controlled the floor, but played as though Western Hills had mined the keyhole area, taking but 11 shots in the whole quarter. Cincy tied up the game at 16-16 after four minutes of play. In the next two minutes, Cincy went ahead for the first time, 22-19, cashing in on seven foul throws. Both teams spent the last two minutes stumbling around, intercepting each other's passes.

Third Quarter

The Lions suddenly snapped out of their lethargy and staged a fighting comeback to take a 28-26 lead on two one-handers by Sheidler and one by Bob Alkire. Neff, Pensly and Alkire regained control under the backboards as the quarter ended at 32-32.

Fourth Quarter

Neff left the game on five per-

Good Hope No. 1 Holds Grange Lead

Good Hope's No. 1 team took it on the chin from the Madison Aces in their last two games of Saturday night's Grange League bowling at Bowland, but they still were safely out in front at least for another week.

Their chief rivals, the No. 2 Good Hope team, won all three games from the Madison Boosters, but were too far behind to become more than a mild threat to the leaders.

The Madison Hustlers took the first two games from the Executives and the Masters won the first and last games from the Madison Specials.

CUT FARMING COST with "CATERPILLAR"

TRACK TYPE TRACTORS

With "Caterpillar" track type tractors you have a year round farming program. There's no laying up of your equipment because of winter or wet weather. "Caterpillars" wide tracks let you work and build farm profits in every season. You plow your fields in less time because "Caterpillar" gives you more power and you may save up to several hundred dollars per year on fuel alone.

There are dozens of other profitable jobs you can do with a Caterpillar tractor, if not on your own farm then on other farms in your community. With a "Dozer blade on your tractor it's a cinch to build land terraces, check dams, farm ponds and land clearing or leveling. This is profitable work that keeps you busy during the slack winter months. Contact your Caterpillar dealer. He may be the best friend you ever had.

Two County Teams See Action Tuesday

After a disastrous week in which the county cage teams lost four out of five games, the high schools go back into action this week, with two teams set for Tuesday and two league games Friday.

Bloomington and Madison Mills play Tuesday.

The Bloomington Bulldogs carrying a record of five wins and nine defeats, will travel to Atlanta, seeking vengeance for a season-opening defeat by that team.

The Madison Mills Spartans will again take the floor in quest of their first victory of the season when they face Monroe at the latter's home court.

The Spartans have lost thirteen games in a row and will have no easy time snapping this string Tuesday, since Monroe already took the measure of Bloomington, two-time conqueror of the Spartans.

The fireworks start Friday when Bloomington goes to Good Hope to meet the league-leading Wayne Mad Antonyms in a crucial battle. The other league clash sends the Jeffersonville Tigers to Madison Mills.

The Spartans have lost thirteen games in a row and will have no easy time snapping this string Tuesday, since Monroe already took the measure of Bloomington, two-time conqueror of the Spartans.

The Ted Mack Amateur Hour which has arranged a special "Congressional Amateur Night" for its regular radio show on ABC Thursday night, will have a television edition on NBC-TV the following Tuesday night. Both are on behalf of the heart fund campaign.

The radio program is to come from Washington, where all the talent—members of Congress, government officials or their wives—is available. The telecast will originate in New York, the Washington cast to be transported north in two special railroad cars.

The acts include barber shop quartets, singers, actors, a French harpist and even a hula hula dancer. Air time for the radio is 9 P. M. and television 10.

March of Dimes specials on the radio Monday night—ABC 10 America Salute to Franklin D. Roosevelt's birthday, Red Skelton and others in a variety show, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt speaking, Ralph Edwards MC. Via television on Tuesday—CBS-TV 1:45 P. M. Fashion show to run an hour and a quarter, Dorothy Doan MC.

New in television tonight: NBC-TV 9:30 Robert Montgomery's Theater, first of a series for alternate weeks, Madeleine Carroll in "The Letter." Montgomery will not act in this one, but will be the producer.

Comedian Alan Young, who hasn't been heard on the radio lately, has been giving some attention to television. He has just finished a Hollywood audition for CBS-TV which is said to be a possibility for the air.

CREAM PUFFS OKAYED
For Sale In Columbus
COLUMBUS, Jan. 30 —(P)—Columbus bakeries were authorized to resume production of cream-filled pastries yesterday by the city health department. They were advised, however, to stop should the temperature rise to 50 degrees or above. Cream-filled pastries were banned earlier this week after 78 persons in nine cities became ill.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Jan. 30 —(P)—The mystery of the Berks County land boom has been solved. Bethlehem Steel company disclosed it bought the land and is doing "exploratory work" for new iron ore supplies.

The area, near Morgantown Pa., where Berks, Montgomery and Chester counties meet, was the site of some of the nation's first iron ore mines and iron furnaces in the days of the Revolutionary War. Iron manufacturers turned westward many years ago after discovery of the larger and richer Mesabi ore fields in the Great Lakes region and the ore fields in the Morgantown area have not been worked extensively since the start of the 20th century.

The land boom first was reported about six months ago, with farmers acknowledging they had sold their land for prices far above that usually paid for farms in the area. At the time brokers handling the transactions declined to identify the buyer, and a flood of rumors sweeping through the section included that uranium was being sought or had been found.

SYNOPSIS

Beautiful Celia Dustin is mourning over perfect marriage to her husband, Mark, a rich gambler, when her pastime is interrupted, for her seemingly one night, her second wedding anniversary, the overcast part of a conversation between Mark and the hotel's old captain, following which Mark drives her casually to a new place for lunch.

CHAPTER THREE

THE ROADSTER came to a smooth stop, and Mark's cheerful voice tore Celia away from the twilight vision of emptiness. He merely said, "Here we are," but it was like a reprieve from some high authority when one is ascending to the galleys.

She sat erect with a start and saw that they were parked in front of a small modernistic building with lines unbroken by corners. A chaste sign over the door said W. V. Corland. That was all. The curved plate glass windows were shrouded in shimmering silken drapes of royal purple.

Celia got out of the roadster and they started the walk toward the door. A smart doorman bowed obsequiously and held the heavy glass door wide for them. They entered a thickly carpeted, air-conditioned room with subdued indirect lighting and elaborate modernistic chairs and couches grouped around small display tables.

Celia stopped just inside the door and looked at the glittering showcases lining both sides of the room. She caught her breath in an inarticulate gasp of delight. Her fingers tightened on her husband's arm and she whispered, "You did remember, Mark. You didn't forget!"

He smiled into her white, upturned face. "Of course I didn't forget, Celia. Let's see if they've got anything you like."

A tall, grave-faced man came across the carpeted floor toward them. He wore a dull gray suit, a wing-collar and black bow-tie, and a few strands of black hair were carefully combed across his bald scalp. He stopped before them, inclined his head deferentially, yet managing to convey a proper impression of hauteur, and murmured, "Is there something I can do for you?"

"Oh, yes," Celia breathed, her blue eyes sparkling. The floor walker inclined his head again and said, "If you'd care to be comfortable at one of these tables..." He led the way down the length of the room, past half a dozen couples browsing at the showcases, to a cozy curved loveseat in front of a small table holding a crystal ashtray, cigarette humidor, and a large silver table lighter. He stood aside until they seated themselves, then suggested, "If you'd care to give me an idea of what you have in mind, I will be happy to assign a clerk for further consultation."

Mark Dustin turned to look at his wife's eager face. "What do we have in mind, Celia?"

Her face was radiantly flushed. "I've always heard that rubies were awfully expensive, Mark."

"Yes, indeed, I quite understand," said the clerk nervously. He turned and went into an ante-room.

"I've always heard that rubies were awfully expensive, Mark," she said, snuggling.

Polio Treatment Progress Is Slow

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 —(P)—The search for better ways of treating polio has proved fruitless so far.

This was reported to a House appropriations subcommittee by Dr. Justin M. Andrews, a communicable disease expert of the Public Health Service. His testimony was released for publication today.

"I know of no advance in the treatment of poliomyelitis," Dr. Andrews testified.

"The diagnosis of the disease has improved in the apprehension of mild cases, inapparent cases, or asymptomatic cases.

We feel that the key to further knowledge lies in a more thorough investigation of those so-called minor illnesses, associated with paralytic polio, and we are attacking the phase in our epidemiological studies."

When the time comes for Uncle Sam to say, "Put a little something in the pot, boy," he means put it in. That's why more auditors are going to be used to check more income tax returns this year. While most income tax mistakes are accidental as slipping on a bar of soap, one out of every three returns examined last year still owed some folding money to Uncle Sugar. This year the internal revenue bloodhounds are going to watch things even closer. They expect us to take all legal deductions and exemptions... but they don't expect us to add it. It's worth remembering.

(In formal is a better word) Revenue men comes around all you have to do is put him in your office, hang up his coat and hat, give him all your records, answer all his questions, take him out to lunch and hope your tax man has made no mistake in computing your return.

You know in our courts you are innocent until proven guilty. From an Internal Revenue man's standpoint you are guilty until they prove you innocent. Oh well it's still a great privilege to live in the good old U. S. A.

In San Antonio a watchdog disappeared while a house was being robbed, then came back and bit the investigating policeman. And you think you're confused.
